HOME ENTERPRISES

A rather conspicuous announcement in today's issue, sponsored by the enterprising business firms of Statesboro, calls attention to a need that is ever before the people—the need to bear in mind one's obligations to those who are helping to build up our town.

The Statesboro merchants are, in a forceful way, reminding the people at this particular time that they are in position to serve them now as they are every week in the year.

Christmas time seems to offer an appeal to people to send away from home in search of new things. The custom of buying away from home is one that ought not to grow. In most cases the home merchant can serve you as well and even better than the foreign merchant. Where conditions are at all near equal, there ought never to be any doubt as to the right course to pursue—the home man ought to be given the preference.

In making this statement, one ought not to forget that there are duties from the other side as well. The home town merchant owes his patrons as great a duty as the patron owes him. First of all, the home man ought to get in position to meet reasonable competition. Often he can do this by exercising a willingness to serve at a legitimate profit. When he can offer as good service and at as good prices, he will find less reason to complain at the failure of the home consumer for lack of appreciation.

But given so, it is well enough not to be too exacting on either side. The man who gives you favors every day in the year is entitled to your friendship and friendship that does not carry business with it is not worth very much in a material way.

If you forget your home merchant now, be consistent enough not to call on him when you want accommodation.

A FALSE THEORY

One of the earliest and most popular of weather fallacies is that the moon has a great influence on the weather. Those who hold to the theory that the moon makes the weather apparently forget that it sheds its beams on the rest of mother earth as well as on their own small locality and that many kinds of weather may favor the earth, or even a fairly small section of it, on the same day or night. Modern man has rather lost faith in the moon as a reliable weather forecaster. Nevertheless many people believe that a "change" in the moon means a change in the weather, even to this day.

Timber is an agricultural crop—grown from the soil, say foresters of the United States Department of Agriculture. Timber growing is usually not a major project on the farm, but timber products often bring in a substantial part of the income. Timber is a farm savings bank to be drawn upon in times of extra need. Thrifty growing timber rightly protected and cut often yields more profit than money at 6 per cent interest.

The idea in using artificial lights in the poultry house is to increase the amount of feed the chickens eat and so increase the number of eggs produced. Where artificial lights are used judiciously, layers can be kept in better physical condition than when lights are not used. Egg production is increased at the time of the year when the price is high.

Laying hens should be fed a ration of scratch grains, mash, meat feed, green feed, mineral feed, grit, and drink. The scratch mixture should always be supplemented with a mash. A good scratch mixture can be made of 2 parts by weight of corn, one of wheat and one of oats.

Sunday is that day wherein you eat twice as much as is good for you, take half as much exercise as you need, and expect to feel fine on Monday.

After reading some obituaries a man gets the idea that standing room must be at a premium in heaven and that hell must be a lonesome and deserted place.

The old-time man who used to tie a bow of ribbon on his buggy whip now has a son who pastes the picture of a bathing girl on the windshield of his motor.

COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

State School Supervisor I. S. Smith spent a day or two in Bulloch this week inspecting the schools which are designated to receive special elementary aid for this year. Mr. Smith seems very much pleased with the conditions of the schools inspected.

Our average attendance is holding above our previous averages so far this term which indicates general satisfaction in our school districts. We are very much pleased with our development so far this term.

The Register box supper was a success in every essential phase of the undertaking. In a financial way it was successful. Five hundred and twenty dollars was raised for the needs of the school which will be expended by the Register P-T. A., which is a live organization. A fine spirit of co-operation is now existing in the Register high school.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Olliff are convalescing since their very serious illness with flu and pneumonia. They are expected to be able to be back in school next week.

The Leefield school is a smooth-running machine that is highly satisfactory to the patrons of the district. A fine faculty that is on the job with a spirit that drives forward at a good pace. The new fence and the work on landscape gardening are attractive. The possibilities are wonderful in this particular line.

The Brooklet box and oyster supper given last Friday night was an enjoyable occasion. The weather was very much against them, but in spite of all this, the entertainment was a success. Almost five hundred dollars was realized under the auspices of the Brooklet P-T. A., one of the oldest and best organized in the county. Brooklet holds her prestige as a leader among the high schools of this county. With her modern school plant and excellent equipment, and with such splendid faculty, Brooklet has nothing to fear in the way of competition.

Just a few more box suppers and all of the schools of the county will have had one this school year. One each per term should be enough during one school year. Our citizens have responded to every call and when we have gone all the way round it is time to call a halt. Some other form of entertainment will suffice and will result in a more satisfactory form of entertainment.

Teachers meet at the Statesboro High School auditorium next Saturday at 11 o'clock a. m. Let us all meet there on time. Saturday is pay day for all of us, remember. Those of you who are on the program should not disappoint us this time. We are expecting full attendance.

CLAXTON MAYOR QUILTS

Claxton, Ga., Dec. 5.—Dr. T. A. McCane became mayor of Claxton Friday when Mayor J. M. Sconyers tendered his resignation at a call meeting of city council. Mayor Sconyers resigned because members of the council did not agree with him on matters of traffic ordinances. It appears that there was an old traffic law on the books prohibiting the parking of automobiles in certain sections of the business district, and the mayor asked that the law be enforced.

Members of the council insisted that the law should be repealed, as a great many traveling men using automobiles wished to park their automobiles in front of the places of business they visited, and the enforcement of the ordinance would create a great deal of discussion. The new mayor will hold office until W. T. Stubbs, the newly elected mayor, is sworn into office January 1st.

Another matter which the mayor failed to get the assistance of council in was the employing of additional policemen to enforce the regulations in force in the school zone. When members of council decided that the present police force was sufficient, Mayor Sconyers read his resignation, which was accepted after some discussion. Council agreed that the present speed laws of the city should be enforced and so instructed the police department.

While at college I learned that the condition of the throat is most important to an athlete. Coaches and captains know that throat irritation may even keep a player out of an important game. For this reason, I insist that my New York Yankees smoke only Luckies, when they smoke.

"I know that Luckies are smooth and mellow and can not irritate the throat."

David C. Lange

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mellow, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"IT'S TOASTED"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

HIGHWAY OFFICIAL SAYS SYSTEM WRONG
Atlanta, Dec. 12.—Thomas H. McDonald, chief of the United States bureau of roads, who supplies through his government agency approximately two millions of dollars a year to Georgia's state road construction, has declared emphatically that the existing system of financing the construction of a state-wide paved highway system in Georgia is entirely wrong.

"The counties need to conserve their resources for the construction of lateral roads to feed the main thoroughfares," said Mr. McDonald, who was in Atlanta in attendance on the National Asphalt Paving Conference and delivered an address. He makes it clear in no unmistakable terms that counties should not be required to exhaust their credit, by the issuance of bonded indebtedness upon property taxes, to help build the state system.

Mr. McDonald shows that when counties conserve their resources agricultural interests are developed and broadened, the schools are enlarged or consolidated, and a greater general economic prosperity and improved rural conditions help all the people.

"This cannot result so long as the counties are called upon to burden themselves by aiding in building the state system," declared Mr. McDonald. "This is not taking into account the impossibility of connecting a system so long as there are counties that cannot provide the aid, and are therefore deprived of the paved thoroughfares, thus discounting the value of the through highway with its missing or weakened links."

"I shall say it as long as I live—the state should utilize the credits and build its own system of permanently paved and completely connected highways."

Mr. McDonald is recognized as the highest road authority in America. He is the foremost highway engineer in the country. He has made a study of the building of state systems, and of the economics associated with them. He knows the best methods of construction and of financing. He handles all of the federal aid—and Georgia, with a reputed patch-work system, has had from him more than a lion's share.

Many good roads advocates here, who say they are in thorough agreement with the views of Mr. McDonald, fail to see, as a number of the advocates pointed out, why a so-called state system in Georgia should be built, a they put it, "as a crutch-quilt basis," that can never be connected up so long as there are sixty or more "lost provinces"—that is to say, counties that have not the taxable wealth to provide the required aid for the paving of the state roads.

AT BAPTIST CHURCH
Sunday night the choir will render its annual Christmas cantata. This year the song offering is a group of the old Christmas songs around which is woven a group of new songs. Those who have heard it think it is the best song offering the choir has rendered in many years. To those who want to get into the spirit of the season this will be a beautiful tonic.

There will be no preaching at the night service, but the pastor will speak in the morning, Sunday school at 10 o'clock, at which hour the school will decide what will be its orphan's home gift this year. Let all the people who have no church engagements for the day be present.

W. M. U. MEETING

MRS. O. L. McEMORE, Press Chairman.

REV. E. F. MORGAN TO PREACH HERE SUNDAY

UNITED STATES IS LARGEST PRINTER
The name of the biggest and busiest publishing house in America you would probably not guess correctly, states The Mentor. It is the Government Printing Office at Washington. The chief difference between this business and a fraction of other publishing concerns, here or abroad, is that the latter choose carefully the material they put out; while the efficient but overworked Government Printing Office must print anything that is turned into it.

The result is that there is no end to making of its books. After glancing over the monthly catalog of publications one is left with a twofold amazement that veritably disarms him; first, that the energies and activities of a Democratic government could cover such an endless gamut; second, that a fraction of the total could ever be regarded as of sufficiently widespread importance to be set up and printed at all.

Among titles listed at random: "Discovery of helium and what came of it," "Notes on the geology of the Canal Zone," "Notes on anglophobia, antipholite, ditolite, sillimanite, stipitopolite, torahedrite and tripolite," "Markets for American fur in China," "Pilot chart of North Pacific," "Expenditures of American commission to negotiate peace," "Air Mail schedules."

Surely Washington "has taken all knowledge to be its province." What would Jefferson think, for instance, of public funds for research and publication on: "Studies in mustard seed substitutes," or "Amphibian of Southern Peru," or "The care of leather?"

The regularly issued periodicals printed in this enormous plant run over a hundred, what with Daily Crop Reports, Monthly Commerce Reports, Good Roads, Schools, Journal of Agriculture, Research and countless others. Then, there is our Old Man of the Sea, the Congressional Record, not to mention the daily turning out of anywhere from five to fifteen reports of committees of investigation, boards of estimate, surveys, inquiries, and reports, promulgations, official orders and so on. And lastly, every bill introduced into congress gets itself printed and, if need be, bound; and every important speech of a senator is likewise prepared for public distribution.

LAD MEETS DEATH IN TRAGIC MANNER
Joe Parker, Jr., 19-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Parker, died at 10:30 Monday night from accidental gunshot wounds received six hours before at the hands of Billie Brett, a playmate, son of J. H. Brett of Savannah, especially appointed to the tragedy occurred at the North House, on South Main street, where the Brett boy is boarding while he attends school. The Parker lad and a number of other boys about the same age had gathered at young Brett's room, preparatory to going out for a game of ball. Asked to get some small article from the closet, young Parker was interested to discover a couple of shotguns standing inside. One, a new one recently acquired by young Parker, also a school boy living at the North House, especially appointed to the tragedy, was in the closet. The Parker lad had already moved from Brooklet toward Savannah. Prompt action intercepted the movement at Egypt, while it was still in custody of the Sheriff's office, and it was returned to the owners.

Wagner disappeared, but was heard from a few days later when he engaged in a similar transaction in pecans near Americus and was thrown into the courts. Upon the completion of his term on the charge, he was turned over to Bulloch county to answer here for his cotton transactions, which resulted as above set out.

GUY RAINES ATTENDS STEPHENS UNVEILING

WAGNER PLEADS GUILTY IN COTTON TRANSACTIONS
Entering a plea of guilty to two charges of forgery outstanding against him, S. Wagner was given a sentence of one year in the penitentiary by Judge Strange in superior court Wednesday, and in addition a fine of $125 in each case.

The peculations of Wagner were unusual for this community. Coming to Bulloch county a stranger about two years ago, he posed as a representative of mill owners in New England who desired to buy cotton direct from the growers and avoid the middleman's profit. He went about the country in the vicinity of Brooklet and bought several small lots at prices two or three times above the market price. For these he gave what purported to be certified drafts on a Boston concern. Those farmers who accepted these drafts deposited them at the Bank of Brooklet and asked for an immediate cash payment from them. Telegraphic inquiry disclosed that they were worthless. In the meantime the cotton had already moved from Brooklet toward Savannah. Prompt action intercepted the movement at Egypt, while it was still in custody of the Sheriff's office, and it was returned to the owners.

Wagner disappeared, but was heard from a few days later when he engaged in a similar transaction in pecans near Americus and was thrown into the courts. Upon the completion of his term on the charge, he was turned over to Bulloch county to answer here for his cotton transactions, which resulted as above set out.

FIRE AT STILLSON LUMBER YARD CAUSES BIG LOSSES
Fire which originated in the dry kiln of the Ziegler Lumber Company at Stillson yesterday resulted in the estimated loss of 175,000 feet of lumber. This included not only the lumber in the kiln, but a large lot on the yard and a car ready for shipment. The plant of the Altman Lumber Company nearby was seriously threatened and its destruction was prevented only by heroic work of volunteer fire fighters who poured on water when the flames appeared in many places.

What the political parties seem to want is a platform that can be used as a raft for wet districts.
